Beginning with Monday afternoon with the entertainment at the home of the Misses Burke ment at the home of the Misses Burke and closing last evening with the affair at the home of Mrs. Arthur Brown, there was not one dull or uninteresting day. The spring season is now at its yery height, and for the next few weeks affairs will doubtless come with a rush. There now remains only a few more weeks before summer begins, so that with a few more turns of the social kaleidoscope the annual hegira, will commence and the great majority will commence and the great majority will be off for the different mountain rethe game. For the coming week many important affairs are promised, principal among them being the ball to be given at Christensens' tomorrow evening by the Young Ladies' Aid society. Over 300 guests will be present, and the event will doubtless be one of more than ordinary brilliance.

An elaborate affair of the week was the musicale given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. W. S. McCornick. The handsome home was beautifully decorated for the event, each room being in a different color scheme. The drawing room was in lavender. Lilaces were the
